

Emotional Intelligence and the whole child

School-based training for School support staff

THE TRAINING

Emotional Intelligence is about how to recognise and control our own emotions, how to recognise how other people are feeling, and to respond to them appropriately. Research suggests that it's our emotional intelligence, rather than our I.Q., which determines our level of success in life. If we really care about children's wellbeing, we need to provide every child with experiences that promote intellectual, social and emotional development.

Participants will :

- Learn the importance of emotional intelligence
- Explore initiatives and practice developed by schools and nurseries to help children to thrive in this area.
- Develop skills to contribute with greater confidence to children's emotional learning.

All participants will receive handouts and a certificate.

Total cost is £275.00 per half day training

SHIRLEY ROSE

I am a freelance trainer currently delivering a range of training packages to support staff in schools. Having qualified as a social worker, I have worked as a trainer, supervisor and advisor at ChildLine, and other organisations. I have also designed and delivered training courses in a range of child related subjects including behaviour management, play, peer support, and child protection. I have written extensively about school lunchtimes.
